

Children with disabilities in emergencies

Children with disabilities and their families share their experiences of emergencies – showing that a crisis can provide opportunities to include children with disabilities.