

The risk of dying from an alcohol-attributable cause is 7 times higher in people from the eastern part of the European Region than from the Mediterranean part

*Annual deaths per million people