

Recommendations and information regarding Coronavirus

- Contacts to services in Berlin
- Decision support for doctor's visit
- Information to reduce your risk
- Optimize the patient flow

Start questionnaire

This application is not an application that provides diagnostic services. The application serves to simplify the procedures in care.

What is the CovApp?

The Coronavirus app (CovApp) is software developed by Charité in cooperation with Data4Life. You can use it to get recommendations for action in just a few minutes. The app asks you several questions including symptoms, travel history, and potential contacts. Besides recommendations for action, relevant contacts, and structured results, the purpose of the app is to optimize patient flow into testing sites, ambulances, and clinics. Please note that this app does not provide diagnostic services.

In this way, the CovApp can help you to better assess your medical condition, provide recommendations regarding doctor's visits or Coronavirus testing, and summarize relevant medical information for future doctor's consultation.