

39 countries are known to require interventions for trachoma†

103 million people are known to be at risk of trachoma globally†

61 million people at risk in Ethiopia, the world's most affected country†

154 districts worldwide reached the active trachoma elimination threshold in 2023, resulting in 20.3 million people no longer requiring treatment*

21 countries have been validated as having eliminated trachoma as a public health problem

1.5 million people require surgery for trachomatous trichiasis, the blinding stage of the disease†

*GET2020 Database, April 2024
GET2020 Database, October 2024
International Trachoma Initiative

According to the Global Health Observatory, 2024

- Known to require interventions to eliminate trachoma as a public health problem
- May require interventions; further investigation needed
- Thought not to require interventions; claims to have eliminated
- Validated as having eliminated trachoma as a public health problem
- Thought to not require interventions

