

AMR activities in Ghana

- Ghana is collaborating with ReAct Uppsala to develop interventions to contain antimicrobial resistance.
- The development and implementation of an AMR policy is pivotal to the interventions in Ghana.
- The policy process in Ghana is in line with standard policy development processes adapted to suit the national context.
- Further information on the Ghana ReAct project can be obtained from:

www.ghndp.org/antimicrobialresistance

- TTT - Technical Task Team
- MARHLAB - Monitoring Antibiotic Resistance in Hospital Laboratories
- KABP - Knowledge Attitudes Beliefs and Practices
- ADMER - Antibiotic Drug Use Monitoring and Evaluation of Resistance